International residency program for writers and translators 2024

Apply by February 20th!

Call for applications – Tartu City of Literature residency spring 2024

*Tartu is the second largest town of Estonia but is widely considered its intellectual capital – vitally significant in developing the educational system, culture, science and literature in the Estonian language. In 2015 Tartu was designated UNESCO City of Literature, further enhancing the vibrant literary scene. Tartu City of Literature residency program aims to increase international exchange and communication, contribute to the mobility of writers and translators, offer a creative and inspiring environment, and provide writers an opportunity to introduce their work to Estonian readers. The programme is open to all writers and translators (translating from Estonian to other languages) from across the world, who meet the criteria described below. The Estonian Literary Society coordinates the residency program in cooperation with the Tartu Department of the Estonian Writers Union and in partnership with various other literary institutions. In 2024 Tartu is the European Capital of Culture – under the title The Arts of Survival the capital of culture programme offers a wide range of events and activities attracting both local and international audiences. You can learn more about the concept and the programme on the website <https://tartu2024.ee/en/> From May 6th to 12th the highlight of Tartu City of Literature, the international literary festival Prima Vista will take place; this year the festival is part of the official programme of European Capital of Culture Tartu 2024 and bears the subtitle Futures Better and Worse. While we encourage all writers and translators to apply for the residency call, we are this time particularly interested in applicants who can establish a meaningful connection with the theme of the festival.*

About the residency apartment

The residents will be accommodated in the former Karl Ristikivi Museum. Karl Ristikivi (1912–1977) was a renowned Estonian writer whose works are considered among the core texts of 20th-century Estonian prose. The apartment, owned by the City of Tartu and managed by the Estonian Literary Society, was his last residence in Estonia before his exile in Sweden in 1943. The historical atmosphere of the apartment has been preserved but all modern facilities are available. The gas-heated apartment (bedroom, living room, kitchen, bathroom and an exhibition room dedicated to Ristikivi) is on the first floor of the two-story house in a quiet residential district not far from the city centre. The administrative support (guidelines for using the facilities in the apartment, providing extra facilities if needed etc.) will be offered by the Estonian Literary Society.

Frequently asked questions

Q: How strict is the length and schedule of the residency - do I need to arrive on April 1st and leave exactly 2 months later?

A: While the residency should be around 2 months there is some flexibility in scheduling; arriving a few days later or departing a few days earlier wouldn't be a problem.

Q: Do I have to be in Tartu the whole time or can I travel to other places in Estonia?

A: We encourage discovering the whole country so you can spend some time travelling around or staying in other cities; unfortunately, we cannot cover the costs of travelling to other places.

Q: Can I come with my partner or family?

A: The apartment is big enough to accommodate a family. Although residency projects are often a way of getting some rest from everyday matters, we completely understand if you choose to come with your partner or family or have them visit for some time. Please note however that we only provide the reimbursement of travel expenses to the residents.
